ALL READY FOR A BOOM.

NEVER has a boom been so well timed as the present rush for Divide investments. There have been bonds and bonds. Some of them have sold out in failure. Others have been crowned with success. Many have failed after representing a puny and precarious system; but in the present case the elements conspire to establish the development of the Divide district as one of the momentous events in the history of the mining world. Rapidly growing mining rush is into new territory where Nature's wildness moulds gold to be recovered and the path of the miners leads from rock and swamp or desert environment where the pioneer properties frequently die in the struggle to maintain an existence against what appear insuperable obstacles. Tonopah shows no trace of its afflictions for mining capital. The goods needed. Inquiry may be conducted with as much ease and facility as though the inter-star were enclosed in their comfortable homes in the best environment. Light, heat, power, transportation, water and everything associated with the highest civilization is at hand for the men who propose establishing their schools in the seat of this government. There is no camping out and no discouragement. The mineralized areas are open books to which all may have access and all that remains is to pursue their studies of examinations with the least physical effort. They find themselves established in a full fledged city embellished with all the refinements of civilization and fortified by street and easy communication with the whole world which places them in communication with distant principals through well equipped telegraphic systems. Supplementing these are banking facilities without parallel in any newly organized camp which lend every facility for the speedy dispatch of money or the delivery of contracts with the least possible loss of time. If it becomes a question of freight rates for bringing in machinery or supplies the question of cost may be easily solved by application to the railroad representatives of established systems which are equipped to handle business without any delay. In addition to these factors should be considered the presence of the most complete and efficient reduction plants in the universe whose application of the symbiotic principle for extraction has given them an ascendancy over all others in the specific field of operations. Under the circumstances there cannot be any question of solving the cost of production or treatment. Test runs of ore may be had at a small cost of only capable of developing their customs departments to treat thousands of tons more every month than they are handling today. In other words every drawback of pioneering is eliminated and the surroundings are such that they never have been equalled in this or any other continent. The pioneers of Tonopah and Goldfield will recall the strenuous they endured in making life feasible in the desert before the days when light power and water and heat brought in and the future of the camps hang in the balance of daring with capital strait to venture on permanent improvements. These first comers will recall the dreary days when the road from Goldfield was blocked with ice teams and the shippers of the Pacific coast were congested with shipments of ores from Tonopah that could not be treated for want of facilities while shippers will remember their own dreams in waiting for the long delayed returns from their shipments.

There is no keystone stone in the development of the Divide which springs into life full fledged with the virility of young manhood endowed with all the conveniences that the pioneers were denied. This is one of the reasons why the Divide district is proving such an attraction to the investor who can follow his confidential agents direct to the edge of the shaft with as much ease as he could change his town clothes for the knick-knacks of gold dust. The ensemble is most inviting without having to wear off any of the rough edges of the wilderness or darling fortune by traveling from the beaten trails of steel rail roads while enjoying the luxury of being daily credat your objective without leaving the well appointed Pullmans inrolling an enjoyment of motoring under perfect skies and incomparable weather. These are the elements that are being commercialized in behalf of the great Divide and when the facts become more generally known these facilities will draw thousands to come hither to see for themselves the sights and scenes of a modern mining boom.

KEYSTONE OF THE ARCH.

WHAT is the relation in which the league of nations stands with reference to the treaty of peace? The league completes it and looks its various sections together. Throughout the treaty constant reference is made to the league of nations. The Saar basin territory which Germany is called upon to cede to France is to be governed by a commission, the majority of whose members will be appointed by the league. To the league is entrusted the duty of seeing that the Huns do not maintain any fortifications or armed forces within 50 kilometers of the east bank of the Rhine; the league will have the final decision in case any protest is made against the change in sovereignty of the territory which Germany is to hand over to Belgium; it will be the guarantee of the territory of Danzig, Poland and Germany. In addition it will work out the mandatory system to be applied to the former German colonies, will name the commissions for the plebiscites in Schleswig and East Prussia and undertake a number of other duties. The league in fact is to be what President Wilson described it—"the eye of the nation, to keep watch upon the common interest, an eye that does not slumber, an eye that is everywhere watchful and attentive."

Spring has certainly come.

The "professors" at the University of Illinois have formed what they call "a sitting room society." This is presumably professorial since removed.

It is now time for the presidential press agents who have been sending us word from Paris that all Mr. Wilson had to do was to roll his finger and any government in Europe would fall to pieces yet the goods in Italy.

If phrases were facts and slanders worked as well as they sound the work of making the world over would be going on to demonstrate it.

The political situation in North Dakota seems to be rapidly approaching the psychological moment when it's up to the Hoffmann patent medicine vendor who has been selling five dollar bill packages around his fifty-cent packages to put out his gasoline torch and drive to the next town.

WAR HABITS

One of the great lessons which the war should have taught us is that of continuous saving. Anyone can learn this lesson by making it a habit to purchase regular War Savings Stamps and Certificates. The government needs your money and there is no safer way to which you can put by a part of your earnings each week.

If the people continue to supply the Treasury with funds by their savings we shall pay off our bills for the war in the shortest possible time with the least hurt. The bills must be paid and in the end they must be paid by someone. The signing of the armistice so far has made no change in the needs of the Treasury. During the months of December and January we expect an expenditure was made during every month of the war.

It is therefore imperative that we do not lapse into our old habits of wasteful expenditure. It is vitally important that we continue to supply the Treasury by buying War Savings Stamps.

A buck private in the army who is worth about eight millions and who stutters said to his bunkie during a Liberty Loan discussion: "Who wants what the buck is the measure of having money if you don't want to give it to the Government?" He owns a cool million and a quarter, it found.

Learn Road Building From Romans. Good and properly permanent roads are still something of an unsolved problem. It has been suggested to Scientific American that road engineers might get much useful instruction in road building by studying the roads built by the Romans a thousand years ago, when respect for neglect of the surface was still giving good service.

THE SIGNAL DIVIDE MINING COMPANY owns an especially valuable claim adjoining the Sutherland on the North. The surface showing on this property is exceptionally good and located as it is there is every reason to believe it will develop into a valuable property. It is possible it may become one of the big mines of the state.

OFFICERS OF COMPANY

G. C. FETTERMAN President
A. B. HALL Vice-President and Manager
MILTON DETCH Secretary
GEORGE A. FOSTER Treasurer
W. J. DOUGLASS Consulting Engineer

Mr. Fetterman has been a resident of California and Nevada for the past 26 years and is known as a successful business man of the highest reputation. Mr. Hall is also an old resident of Nevada and California and has been engaged with many business interests in both states during the full 26 years. He has a wide acquaintance among mining men and seems to be an enviable prospect in his dealing. Mr. Foster is one of Nevada's miners having been the past three years in what are now records as about him. Mr. Detch is one of the best and willingest mining advocates in Nevada. Mr. Douglass is the oldest member of the Divide District and is connected with nearly every big mine in the District. With these men back of the company it would hardly seem that success could possibly fail the project with the well managed control section in the stock will get a square deal.
